Activision is proud to announce the leading performance to date in Kaboom! Even the Activision designers are amazed by his performance. Ken Vance, from Las Vegas, Nevada holds the record for Kaboom! Can anyone beat him?

"Federation" members, 3,600 strong, have scored 100,000 points or better. At least 1/4 of those "Laser Blasters" have scored 1,000,000! Now hold on to your lasers. Check the ages and the scores of the boys pictured below. The current fastest performer is Janet Stuckey, who reached 1,000,000 points in just 2.5 hours! (See "Activision Hall of Fame.")

The "Activision Ski Team" has 1,800 members who have run the slalom course in under 28.2 seconds. Until recently, fifteen members of the team shared a record time of 27.96. The new and sole world record holder on the ski team, with a score of 27.94, is Don Clark of Spokane, Washington.

The "World Class Dragster Club" has 2,900 members. And, the club has the only record jointly held by a father and son—5.61 seconds. (See "Activision Hall of Fame" for more news of the Hunter Family.)

There are a lot of chickens waiting to be saved in Activision's new game, Freeway. Send us a picture of your latest score so we can add it to the tabulations. We'll review some outstanding performances in our next newsletter.
Federation of Laser Blasters

“Federation” members are now 7,000 strong, double the number we reported in the Fall newsletter. And, of that number, over 1/4 have scored 1,000,000 — truly a phenomenal achievement!

The Activision Ski Team

The “Activision Ski Team” has grown to 2,500 members. Todd Rogers has clocked an almost unbelievable 27.64 on the slalom (game 3), and is also one of three record holders at 5.57 in the Dragster Club. Todd is 17 years old, a high school senior and lives in Bridgeview, Illinois.

Save the Chicken Foundation

“Chicken Foundation” members have been hard at work; 1,500 have managed to get 20 or more chickens across the freeway. Our world record holder, Thomas DeVille, is 15 years old and comes from Arlington, Texas. He has saved 34 feathered friends.

Ice Hockey All-Stars

Believe it or not, there are already 2,000 members of the “All-Star Hockey Team,” and the game has only been available since mid-December. Can you beat the Activision computer and join the “All-Stars?”

How To...

Join a club: Seven of the twelve Activision games offer club membership. To become a member, you must fulfill the scoring requirements of one of the seven games and send a photo of your accomplishment to Activision.

Hall of Fame

The Activision Bucket Brigade

What do all these people have in common? They’re all record holders in the Activision “Bucket Brigade” at 999,999.

- Jay and Brian Press, 12 and 9 year-old brothers, collaborated to obtain their score of 999,999 in two hours, with five minute breaks in between. The brothers live in San Pedro, California.
- It took Jim Munsterman only 95 minutes to reach his goal of 999,999. Jim is 46, single, and enjoys bowling, cooking and backgammon. He lives in Napa, California.
- Michael Smithson of Grand Island, Nebraska, fourth record holder in the “Hall of Fame,” is a 22 and an audio-video specialist, and works in a photo-art studio.
- Yuba City, California is home to 14 year-old Joe O’Hara, a 999,999 record holder in the “Hall of Fame” and a member of the “Laser Blast Federation.”

World Class Dragster Club

The 2,500 members of the “World Class Dragster Club” now have three record holders tied at 5.57.

More of Todd Rogers’ exploits are noted in “The Activision Ski Team.” Todd is a double record holder who has a variety of interests, including a collection of 3,000 comic books.

Stampeede Trail Drive

Greg Nichols, from Hudson, Indiana, is 20 years old and a valedictorian at Prairie Heights High School. When he is not breaking Activision records, he enjoys sports and coin collecting.

Rumors from the Lab

Tony Armstrong is a 37 year-old Sales Engineer. He is married and has a nine year-old son. Tony spends his spare time playing the piano and working as a ham radio operator.

One of Activision’s newest games, Stampeede™ already boasts 300 members of the “Trail Drive” who have scored 3,000 or over. Record holder Dennis Kerchner and Kenny Vance are in the lead.

Dennis, who has scored over 22,000, calls his Activision horse “Moose.” In addition to riding “Moose,” he’s an avid letter writer and we really enjoy being on the receiving end of his correspondence.

Kenny Vance was Fall record holder of the Activision “Bucket Brigade.” He’s done it again with Stampeede™ and he has also found time to design his own Kaboom! T-Shirt.

Alan Miller and Bob Whitehead have just completed two new games which will be out in June. Be prepared to leave behind the earth as you know it when you take the helm in Alan’s Star Master™. With Bob’s Chopper Command™, you’ll earn your wings with every game.
The Laser Blasters are going strong. At last count, there are 8,500 "Foundation" members. Keep blasting away!

1,500 kindhearted folks have helped 20 or more of our feathered friends across the freeway to become "Foundation Members."

The Grand Prix racers have been hard at work. We’ll report on the number of members and the record holders of the "Grand Prix Driving Team" in the next newsletter so get your scores in to Jan and her staff.

Todd Rogers and Kenny Vance have scored again. This time they’ve made records chasing the little "dogies."

You met Todd Rogers in the Winter issue of "Activisions" as a record holder on "The Activision Ski Team" and the "World Class Dragster Club." He’s scored 73,754 to become one of the top two members of the "Trail Drive."

Now hang onto your lasso, because here comes Kenny Vance. Fall record holder of the "Bucket Brigade" and Winter record holder of the "Trail Drive." Kenny has broken his own Stampeade record and scored a whopping 157,000!

The "Bucket Brigade" now contains 4,000 members, and there are four more world record holders at 999,999.

Jonathan Rubin of Scarsdale, New York, received his KABOOM! cartridge for his eighth birthday and quickly earned a world record score of 999,999.

Gary Speyer of Madison, Wisconsin, is sixteen and a high school junior. He’s an enthusiastic player of video games. Welcome to the club, Gary.

From Methuen, Massachusetts, Bob DeCicco, 14 years old, wrote to tell us of his 999,999 score and to compliment Larry Kaplan and "The Activision Cast" on their great video games.

It took 16 year old Brad Johnson an hour and a half to reach his score of 999,999. Brad’s a high school sophomore from Christopher, Illinois.

The "All-Stars" have earned real star billing at 5,500 members. Let’s hear from you out there as soon as you are ready to lace up your skates and join the "All- Stars."

3,000 members have joined the "Activision Ski Team" and, as of this writing, no one has broken Todd Rogers’ fantastic 27,54 on the "slalom."

The 3,500 membership of the "World Class Dragster Club" still has three record holders tied at 5,57. How are you doing out there; can you beat that score?
Thousands of Activision fans have joined our 11 game clubs and membership climbs each month. Isn’t it time for your achievements to be recognized? You will find the required score for admission to a club inside the instruction booklet of each game. Take a clear picture of your qualifying score and send it, along with your name, age, address and zip code, to: Activision Consumer Relations Drawer No. 7297, Mountain View, CA 94042

Your “special recognition” is waiting for you. Meanwhile, here’s the latest update on our Activation clubs.

BARNSTORMING™

*“The Flying Aces” now has 625 members and a new three-game record-holder in Jerry Kern (below), a 42-year-old father who works for a naval ship repair company in Albany, California.

It’s our newest game club, but already the “Commandos” have 500 members, and seven commandos with scores of 999,999. They are:

- Steve Gilstrap (upper left), from Fairfax, Virginia. Steve is 16 years old and likes to bowl and ride his bicycle, usually on his paper route.
- Jeff Sessler (upper right), 16, a student at Alta Loma High School in Alta Loma, California. Jeff bowls and builds model railroads when he’s not shooting them up on CHOPPER COMMAND.
- Doug Newman (upper left), a 16-year-old junior at Lee High School in Columbus, Michigan. Doug is an avid motorcyclist and takes flying lessons when he is not playing his 62 video games, 14 of which come from Activision.
- Mark Watkins (upper right), an all-around athlete from Birmingham, Alabama. Mark, 14, swims competitively, cycles, jogs, skis, and plays ice hockey. When he needs a rest, he plays video games and collects comic books and coins.
- Chris Furber (above), a 15-year-old from Colts Neck, New Jersey. He wrote to Activision and described his winning strategy. He congratulated designer Bob Whitehead on “a job well done.”
- Steve Cox (upper left), another 16-year-old, who is from Carmichael, California, the hometown of Activision game designer Steve Cartwright. Steve is a swimmer and plays the bass guitar.
- Seth Restaino (upper right), a 13-year-old from Oakland, California. When Seth is not playing CHOPPER COMMAND, he practices music or plays soccer and baseball.

FREEWAY™

There’s no need to pity the poor bird, the “Save the Chicken Foundation” membership has doubled. There are four world record-holders with scores of 34, and 3,991 people have saved 20 or more chickens.

STARMASTER™

STARMASTER™ scores are pouring in from deep space. Next issue, Fleet Command will issue a full status report on membership in “The Order of Supreme StarMaster.” Who will be the record-holders, the champions of the galaxy?

LASER BLAST™

The “Federation of Laser Blasters” doubled its membership—14,380—since our last issue of ACTIVISIONS. Keep blasting away, all of you!

GRAND PRIX™

Todd Rogers (lower left), our 17-year-old phenomenon from Bridgeview, Illinois, has added another world record to his growing list. He scored 0:29.49 and 0:50.96 in games 1 and 2. But watch out, Todd: there’s strong competition out there from the other 1,179 “Grand Prix Driving Team” members.

Such as Mike Rutledge (lower right), a 27-year-old computer analyst and software engineer from Charleston, South Carolina. He has scored 1:14.24 and 1:36.13 in Games 3 and 4. Mike is education director of the Data Processing Management Association.

DRAGSTER®

More than 1,000 leadfooters have become new members of the “World Class Dragster Club.” Membership stands at 4,440. Four speedsters hold the world record of 5.57. Can someone beat the record by next issue?

KABOOM!™

ICE HOCKEY

It’s not just another pretty game to the 9,992 “All Stars” who have laced up their skates and joined the club. Is there a better way to beat the summer heat?

STAMPEDE™

Cowboys and cowgirls, Kenny Vance is still the undisputed world champion ropers. He lassos 157,000 of the “doggies.” Membership in the “Trail Driver” has hit 2,979. Get out there and rustle up those cattle.

TV Photography — It's Easy
Here's how to take a crisp, clear picture of your winning game score on the television screen:
1. First, you don't need a flash—the light from the TV should be sufficient. Just hold steady and snap away.
2. If you shoot with a 35mm camera, use film with ASA 64, set the lens for F-22 and expose for three to five seconds. Or, you can use film with ASA 100, select the widest lens opening and shoot at 1/30 of a second.
3. With an Instamatic 126 or 110, insert a dead flash bar (or bulb) to open the lens wide, hold steady, and click.

These are the newest club patches and the current top scores for Activision games, against which you can test your skills. But remember, every body is a winner. As Jerry Pierce of Stonington, Illinois writes to us: "I finally got up to 22,559 on Stampede!” only to find out that 157,000 is now the high score. O'well, that doesn't mean I don't enjoy it. We can all be champions but we can all have fun!"

NEW PATCHES—Below is a first look at our four new patches. Our clubs continue to expand, and your response to them has been nothing short of fantastic. Everybody who has fun is a winner— but, as J. Dennis Farr of Syracuse, New York, writes, "By establishing these clubs, you have given your games a special sense of challenge, which makes them, for us, so much more exciting to play."

SPACE SHUTTLE: A JOURNEY INTO SPACE™
Fuel count is critical— the more you save the more you score. 5,000-7,999 makes you a Pilot. But to earn your Wings and become a Commander you need over 8,000 points. Good luck— You'll need it for this one.

THE ACTIVISION DECATHLON™
How high is high? Try 8,600-8,999 points. But that gets you only the Bronze medalation, 9,000-9,999 gets you the Silver. It takes 10,000 or more points to earn the Gold. Now that's high.

FROSTBITED™
A veritable flurry of action. Rack up a cool 60,000 points, be an Arctic Architect, and we'll send you an Ice Patch. (Mukulids not included.)

CRACKPOTS™
The bug stops here. But only if you can score 75,000 or more points. Hey, help Foxley the Roof-top Gardener stamp out infestation, will ya? Be an Activation Crackpot.
