Descending the network of metal girders had always reminded me of old platform videogames like Donkey Kong or BurgerTime. I'd seized upon this idea a few years earlier when I coded my first Atari 2600 game (a gunter rite of passage, like a Jedi building his first lightsaber). It was a Pitfall rip-off called The Stacks where you had to navigate through a vertical maze of trailers, collecting junk computers, snagging food voucher power-ups, and avoiding meth addicts and pedophiles on your way to school. My game was a lot more fun than the real thing.

PARZAVISION

Welcome to THE STACKS!

Your name is Wade Watts and you live in the Stacks, a sprawling vertical trailer park filled with dangerous enemies and obstacles. Your evil Aunt Alice has broken your OASIS console and scattered the pieces around the Stacks. You must find all six pieces and assemble them in your Hideout so that you can log in to the OASIS. Your quest won't be easy. It will take quick thinking and fast reflexes if you hope to escape the Stacks alive!

GAME KEY:

This you, Wade, the hero of our story.

Slow Meth Addict - Jump to evade.

Fast Meth Addict - Jump to evade.

Flasher - Avert your eyes when he opens his trenchcoat, or be scarred and lose a life.

Sparks - The trailers in the Stacks are filled with faulty wiring. Jump to avoid.

Shock Trap - Don't get stunned, or your organs will be sold on the black market.

Food Voucher Power Up - 125 Points
Extra Life

Computer Parts - 125 Points

OASIS Console Piece - 125 Points

Guide Post - Helps you keep your bearings while navigating the Stacks.

Your Hideout - Return here to assemble the pieces of your OASIS console.
